Øyvind Gerrard Skaar

Hi, I'm Øyvind. I'm an independent consultant, developer and architect, based in Oslo, Norway.

I've taken contract work since 2014 and worked on quite a few projects for different clients. Some of these have been multi-year, full time contracts while others have been advisory roles or short-time projects.

More about my previous clients can be found under Projects & Clients and in my full CV in English (PDF)

These days I usually work on projects using Go and/or Google Cloud Platform. I feel I can focuse more on business objectives and actually building things by not switching technologies too often.

More about what I do and how

I also write about backend architecture, Go, Google Cloud Platform and related topics:

- How to use Google Cloud Storage with Golang (with a Google Cloud rant thrown in) (October 2016)

- Learn from my Go mistakes, Part 1: Closing over loop variables (May 2016)

- A few places you can find Golang remote jobs (April 2016)

- How-to build Docker from source (July 2015)

- A few (more than one and less than ten) reasons Redis is awesome! (December 2014)
